The conclusion that education should embrace man's relation to all forms of human activity has been accepted. The technical and industrial have as clear a title to a place in any complete system of education as the literary or the professional. The paper read by Dr. True before the Graduate Summer School of Agriculture is an effort to set forth the claim of Agricultural courses to a place in our educational system and to justify their educational value. It is worth while to call attention to the popular misconception of these courses which amounts to a prejudice against them. The paper will, upon a careful reading, clear away many errors and give a clearer view of the current work in agricultural science. If the current opinion that nature study is a valuable element in the education of our children be accepted the conclusion that a wider study of nature through the avenue of the natural sciences would be increasingly helpful can not easily be resisted. The utter loneliness of a large proportion of our population in the presence of the Creator's universe of life and thought relations is a sufficient evidence of ignorance to warrant an attempt at its removal. Agricultural education aims to bring the student into intelligent and sympathetic cooperation with the world in which he must live and labor....
